Special Session on Building Resilience: Supporting Caribbean Tourism to Prepare, Manage and Recover from Crises

15:05 – 15:15

15:15 – 18:00

Building resilience in the face of natural disasters is both a humanitarian and economic necessity, especially for regions like the Caribbean where tourism is a major source of income and fuels the islands’ economies and societies. Therefore, it is essential for the region to have a functioning crisis preparation, management and recovery process that involves both the public and private sector. This panel will explore potential strategies for the tourism sector in the Caribbean to recover after Hurricane Irma, as well as look toward a long term plan for future preparation, management and recovery. Furthermore, the importance of the private sector and aid agencies in the recovery process will be discussed, in addition to innovative public-private partnerships (PPPs) essential to building resilience.

Concurrent Panel Sessions: Best Practices, Lessons Learned and Recommendations: IYSTD Core Themes

Executives, development practitioners, and community leaders will deliver moderated roundtables that focus on the five main themes of the International Year of Sustainable Tourism Development. Introductory remarks will be followed by interactive discussions aimed at sharing and debating best practices. Attendees should come prepared to discuss their own experiences and challenges.

Session 1: Inclusive and Sustainable Economic Growth

Whether growth is tourism-led or economy-led, tourism clearly makes an immense contribution to the global economy. Capitalizing on this strong economic potential to ensure that tourism advances truly sustainable economic growth will require: (i) Cultivating a favorable business environment, characterized by stability and supportive policies; (ii) Ensuring openness and a high degree of connectivity; and (iii) Bolstering the resilience of the tourism sector. How best can this be done?

Moderator: Kristin Lamoureux, Visiting Professor of Tourism & Hospitality Management, Virginia Tech University

- Carla Bush, Executive Secretary, Central American Tourism Integration Secretariat (SITCA)
- Gordana Popovikj Friedman, Private Sector Specialist, The World Bank Group; Martine Bakker, Tourism Development Specialist, The World Bank Group – ‘A Demand Driven Approach to Increasing Tourism Sector Competitiveness for Improved Socio-Economic Development in the Former Yugoslav Republic (FYR) of Macedonia’

- Pilar Espeso-Molinero, Professor, University of Alicante
- Ketevan Tchumburidze, Deputy Chief of Party, USAID/Georgia Zrda Project, Chemonics International
- Stefan Wright, Investment Officer, IDB Invest

Session 2: Social Inclusiveness, Employment and Poverty Reduction

Tourism is not just a major part of the global economy; it is also a means of furthering “inclusive” growth which increases opportunities for all. To harness tourism’s potential for inclusivity, decent work and poverty eradication – while overcoming the challenges of unsustainable tourism activity – it will be important to: (i) Pursue an “inclusive growth” approach; (ii) Create decent jobs, which redress the skills gaps while ensuring fair, productive employment; (iii) Support local communities and empower women and youth; and (iv) Provide tourism experiences for all, via a focus on universal accessibility. How can these be achieved?

Moderator: Jeffrey Wuorinen, Senior Vice President, Middle East and North Africa, Chemonics International

- Trevor Benson, Director, Food Tourism Development & Innovation, Culinary Tourism Alliance
- Carolyn Hayle, Senior Programme Officer, University of the West Indies; Anne Crick, Senior Lecturer, University of the West Indies, ‘From All-Inclusives to Social Inclusiveness: Harnessing the potential of the Sharing Economy’
- Leandro Choi, Founder and CEO, co-LABtur – ‘Endogenous Convergence for Sustainable Tourism’
- Mariana Aldrigui, Country Director, GTTP Brazil

Session 3: Resource Efficiency, Environmental Protection and Climate Change

As a sector which depends so much on the natural environment, tourism has a special responsibility towards the planet, with the potential to harness this dependency to promote conservation. Challenges abound. An integrated, approach to environmental sustainability is required, grounded upon strategies for decoupling tourism growth from environmental degradation and excessive resource use, with a focus on: (i) Enhancing the efficient use of resources; (ii) Focusing on biodiversity conservation and environmental protection; (iii) Investing in climate change mitigation and adaptation; and (iv) Increasing knowledge of how environmental issues are related to tourism and increasing awareness among key stakeholders. How can these challenges be met?

Moderator: François Bédard, Professor, Université du Québec à Montréal

- Steven Johnson, Ecotourism Specialist, Chemonics International
- Michael Taylor, Senior Lecturer, University of the West Indies
- Malraj B. Kiriella, Director General, Sri Lanka Tourism Development Authority

- Julia Jeyacheya – Senior Lecturer and Program Leader, Manchester Metropolitan University – ‘Supply Chains and Employment in Myanmar, Vietnam and The Seychelles’

Session 4: Creative Industries, Cultural Values, Diversity and Heritage

The global wealth of cultural heritage is one of the principal motivations for travel. Forty percent of international arrivals are considered “cultural tourists”. The myriad of linkages between tourism and culture can contribute to catalyzing inclusive, sustainable development. Bolstering linkages between sustainable tourism and culture can be achieved by: (i) Leveraging “cultural tourism” as a tool for sustainable development; (ii) Safeguarding and promoting cultural heritage – both tangible and intangible -- through tourism; and (iii) Linking tourism to living, contemporary culture and the creative industries. How best can this be done?

Moderator: Seleni Matus, Executive Director, International Institute of Tourism Studies, George Washington University

- Olivia Grange, Minister of Culture, Gender, Entertainment and Sport, Jamaica
- Maysa Shahateet, Team Leader, Team Leader, Developing Tourism Assets & Experiences, Jordan, Chemonics International

- Arlene McKenzie, Director, Rastafari Indigenous Village, Jamaica, ‘Package the Tourist not the People’
- Randa Napky, Director General, Tourism Abitibi-Témiscamingue, ‘Successful Geotourism Initiative in a Canadian Remote Destination’

Session 5: Mutual Understanding, Peace and Security

The very existence of tourism depends on peace and security. On the other, the transformative power of tourism – grounded upon billions of encounters that occur every day – paves the way for dialogue, mutual understanding and tolerance. Advancing tourism's contribution to mutual understanding, peace and security requires: (i)Fostering a “culture of peace” and global citizenship through tourism; (iii) Harnessing tourism as an agent for peace and reconciliation; and (iv)Maintaining safety and security across the tourism sector. How can we best tap these important benefits of tourism?

Moderator: Michele Piercey, Senior Vice President, Strategic Solutions and Communications Division, Chemonics International

Plenary 6: Successful Models of Destination Management

Successful Models of Destination Management There is increasing competition among destinations to attract visitors, while others are dealing with challenges of needing to manage pressures of over-visitation. The rise of cities requires more creative market engagement methods. Social media and digital promotion are re-writing how consumers are engaged and causing shifts in marketing budget alignments. Destinations also need to build capabilities to manage image and return to growth in the wake of unforeseen crises. This includes adequate urban planning and creativity in infrastructure in city design. The panel will discuss these trends and more.

Cockpit Country Adventure Tours

Amazing discoveries above and below ground at a unique ecological sight known for its biodiversity and high species endemism. It is habitat for Jamaica's 28 endemic bird species and hosts several migratory species, a site of caves and rivers. As the location of many of the first Maroon settlements and the battlefield and ally for Maroon fighters in Jamaica's earliest independence struggles, Cockpit Country is one of the final bastions for the old-time culture of the Jamaican countryside. The rich heritage and natural history is kept alive today in crafts, food, art, music and humanity of Cockpit Country's residents. Experience authentic eco-tourism with Cockpit Country Adventure Tours.
